CITY CREEK CENTER

The new heart of Salt Lake

The City Creek Center concept began as a way to bring a new style of urban living to Salt Lake City's downtown—a more cosmopolitan atmosphere in this historic western city. It culminates in a community that will bring not only new energy to Salt Lake City, but will also energize all those who live, work, and play here. As City Creek meanders through the pathways and plazas, past living spaces located above intriguing shops and dining options, so too will residents and visitors alike discover a pleasant urban stroll as exciting and energizing as anything that's ever come to downtown.

Until now, the urban lifestyle has always happened somewhere else. But if you've ever dreamed of a place where living, working and playing come together, without losing the qualities that make Salt Lake City what it is, welcome to your new home.

THE CREEK THAT BUILT A CITY

"Just above Salt Lake City, City Creek Canyon still looks much as it did when the first pioneers arrived. More than anything else, the creek established the location of the city within the valley. It irrigated the first potatoes. It powered mills and provided timber. And even today, the creek is responsible for nearly 20 percent of the city's water."

- A History of City Creek Canyon by Matthew Prince and Patrick A. Shea

Welcome to the Neighborhood

This is something entirely new. Only now can you say Salt Lake City and cosmopolitan in the same sentence. Life at City Creek places you within easy walking distance of all the finest that Salt Lake has to offer; from symphony and theater to fine dining, shopping and deluxe office space. City Creek is where friends meet friends, where work meets play, where the past meets the future, and where Salt Lake meets New York.

Work where you play PLAY WHERE YOU WORK

Whoever said they needed separation between work and home life never saw City Creek. The office space at City Creek houses an abundance of companies located within easy walking distance. Swap your congested commute for a leisurely stroll; sell your car and buy some nice walking shoes. Life, and everything you need, is right here.

City Creek Center shopping will be unparalleled. City Creek will meander through a two-block Galleria of intriguing shops and boutiques sure to whet the appetite of any seasoned or even novice shopper. You'll stroll casually through this open air promenade, an outdoor experience with an indoor feel where a retractable glass roof provides protection from the elements. All this added to Salt Lake's existing roster of fine shops makes City Creek and downtown Salt Lake City a true shopper's paradise.

ENTERTAINMENT

What will it be tonight? An evening at the symphony? A bit of ballet? A night at the opera? City Creek lies at the center of it all, from live theater to the movies, the symphony to live jazz, all of it just steps from here. So what suits your fancy? A little Mozart? Perhaps something from Spielberg? Life at City Creek means entertainment at every turn.
